This report has been prepared for only eligible investors that are interested in the Pi Secured Legal Loans Fund and may be provided to others only with prior written permission.

Accumulation Returns	3 months	12 months	3 years	Since Inception
Class I-GBP-A	2.4%	10.0%	10.0%	10.0%
Class I-EUR-A	2.0%	8.4%	8.4%	8.5%
Class I-USD-A	2.3%	9.7%	9.9%	9.9%

Performance Disclosure: 31 March 2025 data. Fund Class I-GBP-A net performance from 1 December 2024; Class I-EUR-A not launched yet; Class I-USD-A not launched yet. Fund performance is linked with prior Representative Performance which is calculated as a carve-out of gross returns on the portfolio of legal cases financed via the Lending Platform since inception on 11 March 2021 in Pi Fund Limited which is an open-ended investment fund that is registered, regulated, and audited in the Cayman Islands; figures over 12 months are annualised. The current portfolio of legal cases has an average age and case-type concentration greater than expected as the portfolio grows over time, and the majority of cases have not reached final conclusion yet. Figures are adjusted to account for Accumulation investor terms, including administration expenses and investment manager fees as set out in this document, but not including any Initial Fee, and assuming no distributions. Figures for currency-hedged investors have been prepared using historical one-month forward rates and assuming a cost of hedging of 0.32% per annum. Performance over time is expected to fluctuate depending on the mix of ages of legal cases, as each underlying loan pays simple not compound interest. The track record reflects the investor terms which have been designed to ensure that early net performance is consistent with the expected net return over the medium term, assuming a portfolio of 20% shorter-term cases that will take nine months on average and 80% longer-term cases that will take 36 months on average.

Perspective Secured Legal Loans – Overview

The Perspective Secured Legal Loans Strategy provides loans to give consumers “access to justice” to cover the disbursement expenses of legal claims that they would otherwise be less able to pursue due to the financial commitment required. In the UK, the Jackson Reforms came into force on 1 April 2013, enabling lawyers to enter into conditional fee agreements, firmly supporting third-party funding.

- Current claim types are Housing Disrepair, Military Deafness, Mortgage Interest Miscalculation, and Undisclosed Commissions. Examples of claim types being considered are Bank Fraud, Business Energy, Motor Finance, and Tenancy Deposit.
- Legal disbursements on such claims are typically up to £35,000 with an average of about £10,000.
- Arrangements are made between the consumer, a law firm, an insurer, and the lender such that consumer financial downside is limited, and funder downside is protected too.
- Law firms review potential consumer cases to determine whether they merit being funded and pursued.
- An insurer underwrites the legal case and issues After-The-Event (ATE) policy cover such that if the claim fails then both the legal disbursement expenses and interest on the lending to fund these expenses will be paid by the insurer.
- An ATE insurer Deed of Indemnity provides additional assurance that the insurer will pay policy claims irrespective of claim circumstances.
- The ATE insurer is credit rated A- (Excellent) currently and has reinsurance cover that is issued by reinsurers that are credit rated A- (Excellent) currently.
- Diversification, to be developed over time, is intended to be across both claim types and law firms, and in due course additional insurers.

Perspective Secured Legal Loans – Investment Differentiators

- Alignment – The Founder, Directors and Executives represent over 30% of the assets of the Firm and the Firm has and expects to maintain a significant investment in the Secured Legal Loans Strategy.
- Illiquidity Premium – Investment in less liquid opportunities can provide an increase in expected returns relative to liquid public bonds listed on financial markets.
- Risk Mitigation – Insurance and reinsurance protection aim to mitigate capital and interest repayment risks.
- Diversification – Beyond diversification within the strategy itself, performance is likely to be less correlated with conventional investments that are subject to the economic cycle or financial markets.
- Service – Significant investors have direct access to our senior staff.

Perspective Secured Legal Loans – Risks

The Strategy involves investment, operational and contractual risks and there can be no assurance that the investment objective will be met, that any expected performance returns will be achieved, or that investments will not fall in value, meaning investors may not get back their original investment.

Perspective Investments

Perspective Investments was established in 2008 to manage the founder family wealth, and to provide a structure to enable others to invest alongside. The directors and executives have institutional investment backgrounds and most invest with the Firm, representing a significant amount of the assets under management. External investors include senior executives at financial institutions such as a global investment manager, a specialist insurer, and a sovereign wealth fund.

Perspective performance has benefited from access to specialist investment opportunities that are less liquid and longer-term investments (three to five years). Where the capacity of these investments is sufficient, the Firm has begun to develop products to provide direct access.

Investor Key Terms

An Initial Fee may be chargeable in certain circumstances, and Advisory Fee may be chargeable in certain circumstances.

Accumulation investors: 1.5% Management Fees, capped during the Ramp-Up Period of 36 months such that the total of Management Fee and Fund Administration Expenses are not more than 2.0% per annum, and 10% Performance Fee where performance fee is subject to maintenance of net performance at 6% or more over the most recent 12-month period; Three-year Withdrawal Notice and 95-day payment period.

Distribution investors: Terms as for Accumulation investors except as follows: 2% Management Fee, capped during the Ramp-Up Period of 36 months such that the total of Management Fee and Fund Administration Expenses are not more than 2.5% per annum; 0.5% Liquidity Management Charge (payable to Accumulation investors); and there will be semi-annual distribution of net income.

Founder Fee arrangements are in place initially to compensate the seed investor for the costs of establishment of the strategy and for the provision of liquidity during the Ramp-Up Period, to ensure that seed investor privileges accrue to the seed investor, and, importantly, to enable rebates to be paid to new investors to ensure that their returns are consistent with the expected return over the medium term until either £20 million of assets from new investors or the end of 2026.

Investment is subject to capacity availability, so subscription commitments may have to be received in tranches as capacity becomes available.

Liquidity: Investment is for the long term. Liquidity will be provided monthly, subject to the notice requirement of three years and 95-day payment period, and with disinvestment payments being made from claims settlement proceeds rather than these claims settlement proceeds being reinvested in new claims. Accordingly, investors should only consider this Strategy if they are prepared to wait to get their money back. Early withdrawals may be available on request but are not guaranteed to be available and additional charges of 0.5% per month of acceleration would be incurred.

Strategy Administration Expenses are expected to run at c1.2% per annum initially, but this figure is expected to decrease significantly as the Strategy grows.

Valuation, Investments, and Withdrawals

Valuation Day is the last business day of each month.

Investments may be made monthly. Minimum initial Investment is 100,000 EUR or equivalent.

Minimum subsequent investment or withdrawal is 10,000 EUR or equivalent; and minimum withdrawal is 10,000 EUR or equivalent, subject to minimum holding of 100,000 EUR or equivalent.

Withdrawals are processed monthly, subject to notice requirements, standard terms, and any restrictions. Accordingly, investors should only consider this Strategy if they are prepared to wait to get their money back.

Conventional strategies involving investment in securities and derivatives and more speculative trading involve substantial risk of loss and are not appropriate for all investors. Unconstrained or specialist alternative strategies, relative to more conventional investment strategies, may take more risk and are not intended to be a complete investment program for any investor.

Unconstrained strategies enable investment in anything, with no benchmark and no targets in relation to geographic, industrial, or other market sectors or specific asset classes, and subject to very few investment restrictions and may make extensive use of derivative instruments which are inherently leveraged with substantial risk of loss.

Specialist alternative strategies may take additional investment, operational and contractual risks specific to the execution of the strategy, and there can be no assurance that the investment objectives of these specialist strategies will be met.

General investment risks applicable across all the Firm's strategies may include a temporary or permanent loss of capital due to short-term volatility or more permanent movements in the value of investments relative to the views of and positions taken by the Investment Manager. Such losses can arise in several ways including market movements (in bonds, commodities, currencies, equities, etc.), credit & counterparty defaults (including broker failures), uninsured losses, and valuation inaccuracies. General risks include external risks beyond the control of the Firm such as environmental risks like climate change and political risk.

Specific investment risks that may be taken include (but are not limited to): Credit & Counterparty Risks; Concentration Risks; Leverage Risks; Complexity Risks; Contractual Risks; Private & Illiquid Investment Risks; Short Position Risks; Hedging Risks; Pooled Vehicle Risks; and related Operational Risks.

Investment in illiquid investments which are longer-term and may be difficult to dispose of is reflected in investor liquidity terms, such that investors must be prepared to wait to get their money back.

Past performance is no guarantee of future results. The value of investments may go down as well as up and investors may not get back their original investment. Where performance of a strategy is shown, please see the accompanying footnotes for the calculation methodology and assumptions. Strategy returns may be amended due to re-pricing adjustments or receipt of more accurate data, among other things, which will be reflected in the next factsheets. No representation is being made that any investor will or is likely to achieve similar trading results included in this document.
